Added to these kickers are the sixty "paper-chasing" policemen, who are dispensed with by the provisions of the bill, and who must go back to patrol duty. They have had a "soft thing," with no night work and comparatively little to do during the day. They are loudest in their denunctations of the law. They blame that much-abused beast, the Tainmany tiger, for all. Finally, there are the various district leaders, who want the division superintendents, toremen, clerks, laborers and cartmen appointed. If they all could be satisfied by dividing the eleven big plums, the places of division superintendents, between twenty-four of them, the most difficult part of the problem that is turning Mr. Brennan's hair gray would be solved. There are about 2,500 places to fill and 5,000 applicants to satisfy.

No. 33 is the house where Dr. Parkhurst, Detective Gardner and Amateur Detective cally shall not be employed as Erving testified that they witnessed disorderly policy of the Union.

Adams's counsel claimed that she was unaware of such occurrences, and in any event that they did not reflect upon her "private" residence at No. 31.

The counsel for the owner of No. 31 argued that the two houses were, as occupied by Mrs. Adams, one and the same establishment, and that No. 31 was therefore a disorderly house. The jury could not agree, however, and Mrs. Adams was temporarily victorious. The new trial was to have come up to-day, but has been put off until after the trial of Mrs. Adams next Monday in General Sessions on an indictment found on Dr. Parkhurs's testimony.

Meanwhile Mra Pigott, the owner of No. 35, has petitioned Justice Lachman to eject Mrs. Adams from her house. The petition is returnable to-morrow, and the trial, if there is one, will probably be held some time next week, aithough the General Sessions' case may upset the dispossess proceedings.

The belief prevailed about Police Head-quarters that the new Superintendent had brought the precinct commanders together to give orders arising out of the developments of Dr. Parkhurst's crusade, and the presentment of the Police Department by the Grand Jury.

Amateur boxers were out in force last night in attendance upon the meeting of the Board of Managers of the Metropolitan Association at the Astor House. They expected that Huga Winters, Billy McGarry and Jim Rice were to be expelled from the amateur ranks for accepting money for per-orming at certain boxing exhibitions. President Curtis was expected to prove his charges against them, but he did not. The accused boxers had taken advantage of the A. A. "Did you love Eric very much, Mrs. Gresham?" asked Nell, after a moment's silence.
"I thought so then, but I found out

Carl. Thorps flushed guiltile.

"Who took you that?" be asked.

"Oh, the usual little tird. You showed cacellent taste, Captain."

"I prefer to leave Miss Beauford's name out of the present discussion," he answered, constrainedly. The widow look with the rung upon her then began to play with the rung upon her thinger. "One thing I promise I but were the rung from your flager and put another in rung from your flager and your flager
